Birding

Harlingen loves birds.

Harlingen is a Mecca for birding. Centrally located in the Lower Rio Grande Valley of South Texas, and in the heart of the central flyway, the varied habitats of Harlingen can be exciting anytime of the year.

With over 400 species of birds having been found in the vicinity of Harlingen, and an additional 130 species elsewhere in the Valley, the attraction for birders is obvious. Of these 530 species, close to 30 of them are “Valley specialties”.

Residents include Black-bellied Whistling-Duck, Great Kiskadee, Green Jay, Altamira Oriole, Tropical Kingbird, Buff-bellied Hummingbird, Green and Ringed Kingfishers, Plain Chachalaca, Clay-colored Thrush, and Northern Beardless Tyrannulet to list a few. White-tailed Hawks and Gray Hawks are regularly seen, but Zone-tailed Hawks and Hook-billed Kites are occasionally reported. Green Parakeets and Red-crowned Parrots fill out the color wheel.

Locally, Hugh Ramsey Nature Park (Harlingen’s wing of the World Birding Centers) is home to many of the above species, as well as Olive Sparrow, Long-billed Thrasher, and Common Pauraque. This 55-acre park, formerly a landfill project but now lovingly landscaped with native trees, bushes and shrubs, is less than 3 miles from downtown Harlingen, and offers trails, photo blinds, gardens, a covered pavilion and restrooms. The second parcel of the World Birding Center is called the Harlingen Thicket, and is less than 2 miles south of downtown along the Arroyo Colorado. Look and listen for Groove-billed Ani, Curve-billed Thrasher, and Verdin. Although a smaller park, it also offers nature trails and restrooms.

Within an hour of Harlingen are several National Wildlife Refuges (Laguna Atascosa, Santa Ana, Lower Rio Grande Valley), the beautiful and hyper-saline Laguna Madre Bay (home to the "Mangrove" Warbler and 77% of the world's wintering Redhead ducks), the white beaches of South Padre Island, famous State Parks for birding (Estero Llano Grande, Resaca de la Palma, and Bentsen-Rio Grande), and all the hinterland in between.

Fall and spring migration bring lots of warblers, vireos, orioles, grosbeaks, and buntings to the region, plus shorebirds in numbers in the many agricultural fields of the area. Between September and May, Harlingen offers the ultimate for birders. The Rio Grande Valley Birding Festival (early November) is the ideal time to visit and gather with fellow birders from across the country (www.rgvbf.org). Become a Winter Texan, even for a week!

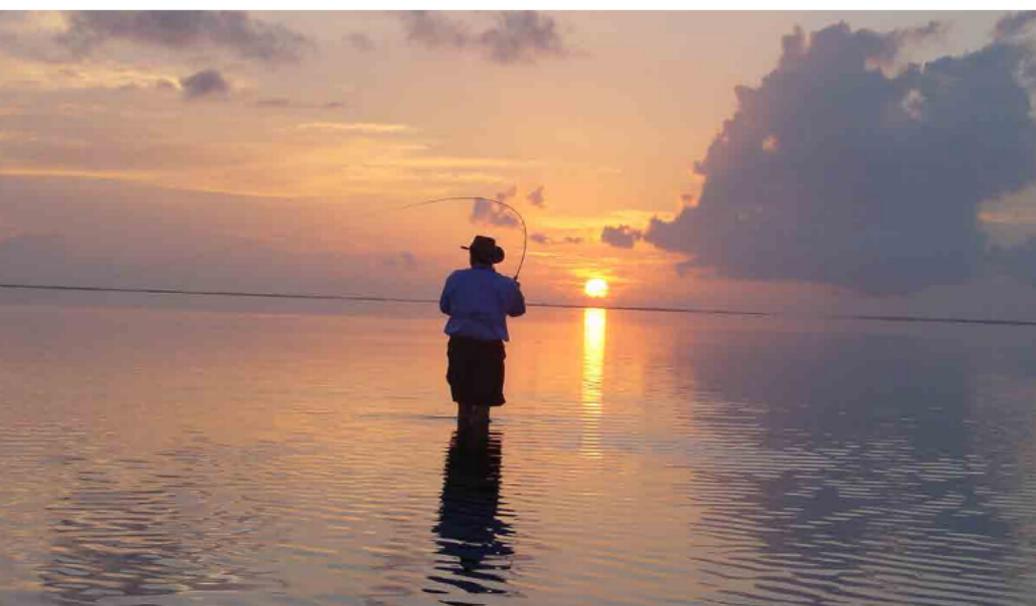

Hunting

Harlingen is surrounded by the beautiful South Texas brushlands and riparian forests, which are host to a wide variety of game for the outdoorsman to enjoy. While all of Texas is home to great hunting opportunities, our rich landscape, and year-round greenery help develop some of the larger specimens to be found in the state. Come visit, and hunt white-tailed deer, nilgai, javelin, wild pig, dove, quail, ducks, and more. Nearby ranches such as El Canelo and White Wing offer professional hunts overseen by some of the best guides in the area.

Fishing

Anglers will enjoy all of the sport fish available along the Gulf Coast, targeting species that are not found elsewhere except Florida and Mexico. Inshore species include redfish, speckled trout, flounder, snook, tarpon, and many more. Offshore anglers can target marlin, sailfish, dorado, snapper, grouper, amberjack and others. Take advantage of numerous professional guide services and convenient and affordable lodging in Harlingen.

The Texas International Fishing Tournament is held every August. In the last seven decades, this tournament has become the largest on the Texas Gulf Coast and is ranked in the top ten billfish tournaments in the world.

Sports

Great sports facilities and tropical weather keep youth baseball, softball and soccer teams returning to tournaments such as the PONY Fast Pitch Softball and USSSA.

From the 80 acre Harlingen Sports Complex with 12 softball / baseball fields and the Harlingen Soccer Complex with its 10 fields to Victor Park, athletes of all ages enjoy year-round play with PONY and Bronco Leagues, girls' and boys' teams, youth and adult leagues.

The expanded HEB Tennis Center at Pendleton Park offers 18 lighted tennis courts. With bleacher seating, the facility is suitable for tournament play. Harlingen Country Club is the site of a USTA Men's Futures tournament. Harlingen's flat terrain and bike trails bring cyclists for long distance and casual jaunts.

Harlingen is the only city in the Rio Grande Valley to have all-inclusive playgrounds. These state of the art parks allow every child to enjoy time in the playground. Lon C. Hill, Pendleton & Victor Park.

Golf

The Rio Grande Valley has more playable days of golf per year than anywhere else in the United States. With four public courses and one private course, Harlingen has a course for you, whether you're a beginner or a pro.

Shopping

Bass Pro Shops, America's most popular outdoor store, is now open in Harlingen. These stores are a combination of museum, art gallery, aquarium, outdoor education, conversation, and entertainment. Each store is uniquely themed to the region in which they are located so that no two stores are alike.

The Harlingen store offers outdoor enthusiasts 3 ½ football fields of shopping excitement, with the area's largest selection of equipment and clothing for hunting, fishing, hiking, backpacking, wildlife viewing, camping, outdoor cooking and more. The gift and nature center serves up a wide variety of outdoor-related items from lamps and dishes to bird feeders and furniture. There is an expansive boat showroom, as well as a boat service center.

The outdoors is brought indoors with unique exterior and interior motifs, including massive log and rock work, large aquariums and water features stocked with native fish species, and an extensive collection of museum-quality fish and wildlife exhibits. Historic photos, artifacts, and memorabilia pay tribute to the Rio Grande Valley's great outdoors heritage.

In contrast, Harlingen's Historic Downtown brims with boutiques like Simply Elegant, antiques (try Antiques Emporium), décor stores (Cossey Creations), and art galleries (D'Arte Center). While shopping, catch lunch or a snack at Java Café or Ol' D's Soda Shop, a vintage vinyl shop. A 100-year-old seed store and garden center, and an authentic Army surplus store are just a few of the reasons that locals and visitors alike flock to the area.

Valle Vista Mall is anchored by Dillard's, JC Penney, Sears, and Big Lots, with more than 70 additional stores. Lincoln Corners and Harlingen Corners offer major brand stores like Kohl's, Marshall's, Bed Bath and Beyond, Target, and Hobby Lobby.

Just down the road in Mercedes, TX is the Rio Grande Valley Premium Outlets. This 140-outlet mall is the premier destination for shoppers looking for impressive savings on designer brands like Burberry, Polo Ralph Lauren, Saks Fifth Avenue Off 5th, Sony, Coach, Adidas, Banana Republic, Gap Outlet, and more.
